SIGGRAPH Asia Call for Entries

ART GALLERY: ADAPTATION

SIGGRAPH ASIA 2009

Pacifico Yokohama, Yokohama, Japan

16-19 December 2009

<http://www.siggraph.org/asia2009>

SIGGRAPH Asia 2009 Art Gallery is calling for artworks and works of design to be showcased in the 2nd edition of the annual SIGGRAPH Asia Conference and Exhibition on Computer Graphics and Interactive Techniques in Yokohama, Japan.

The 2009 Art Gallery The Art Gallery will feature a diverse, international body of art and design by emerging and established artists, ranging from pieces driven by technology to works that critically comment on our technological society. The exhibit will be made up of both curated and juried work, and the works will be selected based on four criteria—the depth of the concept of the work, aesthetics, craftsmanship, and relevance to the theme of the show.

The theme for the SIGGRAPH Asia 2009 Art Gallery will be ADAPTATION. How does man or other species change to fit new circumstance and conditions in an ever-changing world? How does a species develop physically and behaviorally in order to survive and reproduce? How is technology used to achieve adaptation, or how does it destroy one's ability to adapt? Has technology really helped us adapt? At this critical time in humanity's evolutionary journey, we are looking for artworks that respond to these kinds of questions. We are calling for artworks that resonate strongly with our challenging existence in an ever-changing world of technological advances, environmental crisis, and global shifts of consciousness.

The medium can include but are not limited to the following categories:

- 2D, 3D artwork: such as digital prints, paintings, and sculpture
- Art installations and environments
- Interactives: installations, web-based art, responsive media, robotics, touch-screens
- Time-based work (video/animation): for monitors, installations, or projections
- Artwork using digital communities: including alternative networks, mobile, and locative media
- Performance: Electronically mediated performances, interactive performances, and digital art happenings.
- Artwork using digital audio
- Works of Design

The exhibition will consist of a curated body of work and a juried body of work. The jury will be made up of artists and professionals working in the field of fine art, new media, and computer graphics. We are accepting submissions globally, and we encourage artists of all nationalities to apply.
